

Our values

In its everyday activity, ArchiDoc pursues clearly defined and highly ethical principles that are observed by all employees of the company. A particular emphasis is placed on ensuring that those principles are complied with by our managerial staff that leads other employees by example and sets the standards to be followed by all our staff members.

The company's core values include the following:

1. Adhering to the generally adopted principles of culture and good behavior;
2. Representing the company outside in a dignified manner;
3. Creating a friendly work environment (good work comfort, lack of discrimination, ability to develop professionally);
4. Ensuring that the company's activities are fully compliant with applicable legal regulations;
5. Acting in an honest manner in our relations with customer, business partners and authorities (highest quality of service, timely performance of obligations, showing due care while reviewing remarks and complaints);
6. Participating actively in supporting the community (charity policy, caring for the environment).
